FIVE ALLIED VESSELS SUNK BY JAP SUBS

One American Ship Goes Down In 'Life Line' Waters East of Australia

ALL OF 81 ABOARD FREIGHTER SAVED

Huge Flow of Men and Materials Is Carried On, However

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 7. — Japanese submarines torpedoed and sank five Allied freighters, one an American, recently in the "life line" waters east of Australia but the huge flow of men and supplies for future Allied offensives continues "virtually unpunished," headquarters announced today.

Every member of the 81 aboard the American ship, commanded by Capt. C. C. C. Endstrom, Alameda, Calif., was rescued by Australian naval craft after one of two torpedoes found its mark in a night attack. The captain, last to leave the ship, stayed aboard until the main deck was awash.

The biggest ship lost was an Australian freighter. Only two of her crew perished. The others, including the captain, who stayed aboard until his ship sank, clung to rafts and wreckage until picked up.

It was disclosed May 1 that the enemy had sent submarines "in some force" against the supply lanes east of Australia but nothing in the accounts of survivors indicated the Japanese were operating in wolf packs of the size used by the Nazis in the Atlantic.

First Ship Sunk

The American freighter was the first incoming trans-ocean ship to be sunk out of the great volume of shipping sent across the Pacific from America since the war opened.

"Our shipping continues to operate in virtually undiminished volume under protection by our naval and aircraft units," today's communiqué reported.

It also announced a new ground triumph for the Allies moving upon the Japanese bases of Salamaua and Lae on New Guinea's Huon Gulf. Surprising a Japanese outpost and dispersing it, the Allies' village of Bobdubi only 10 miles southwest of Salamaua.

This move threatened to cut the line of supply to Japanese forces entrenched at Muro, 12 miles south of Salamaua, in an area over which Allied attack planes rained 20 times yesterday, pouring cannon and machine-gun fire. Muro has a good airport.

At Tabe fane on the Aore island, below Dutch New Guinea, Australian Beaufighters destroyed nine Japanese floatplanes on the beach and sank a small boat loaded with enemy troops.

OHIO RATINGS LIQUOR JUNE 1

Date Set by Director Fisher; Allowances Are Not Set Yet

COLUMBUS, May 7. — State Liquor Director Don Fisher formally set June 1 as the effective date of Ohio's liquor rationing program today as he displayed sample copies of the ration book.

The book, officially designated a "customer identification and liquor purchase record," actually is a slip of heavy paper measuring 3 1/2 x 10 inches but which folds twice into a handy pocket-size book 3 3/4 x 2 1/2 inches.

As a precaution against counterfeiting, the book paper carries a state board of liquor control watermark.

Warning on Alteration

"Any altering or defacing of this customer identification and liquor purchase record shall automatically render it void," warns a notice printed above the lined form for recording purchases by ration periods and by date. The form also calls for identification of the state retail store by number and the volume of liquor bought.

Fisher reiterated that the first liquor allowance per customer would not be determined until applications for ration books are received.

Registrants for rationing are obtaining application blanks at their neighboring liquor stores this week. To qualify for purchases during the initial period, starting June 1, mailed applications should be postmarked not later than midnight, May 10, Fisher said.

SUB SKIPPER DIES TO SAVE CREW, CRAFT

Saga of Distant Pacific Is Revealed In Navy Announcement

MEDAL OF HONOR IS GIVEN BY FDR

Preferred to Die Rather Than Expose Men or Ship To Fire

WASHINGTON, May 7.—A submarine skipper whose last gallant order, "take her down," sealed his own death sentence was credited by the navy today with successful attacks on three Japanese ships, the last of which the sub rammed in a dramatic night fight for life.

It was in this final action somewhere in the distant Pacific that the officer rode the conning tower of his submerging submarine to his death rather than expose the craft or crew to enemy gunfire.

He had been wounded a few moments before and knew that the time required to get him safely into the submarine might mean the sub's destruction.

Wins Medal of Honor

For this sacrifice, Commander Howard W. Gilmore, 40, of New Orleans, La., has been awarded posthumously the Congressional Medal of Honor by President Roosevelt.

The story was told by the Navy today, partly in a communiqué and partly in an accompanying account of the final fight.

The communiqué, which also reported American air raids against Japanese positions in the Central Solomon Islands, listed the three last ships attacked successfully by the submarine under Gilmore's command as a medium cargo ship, sunk; a gunboat, damaged and probably sunk; a medium cargo ship, damaged.

"Commander Gilmore gave his life in the action against the gunboat listed above," the communiqué said. "As he lay on the bridge wounded by enemy machine gun-fire he ordered his submarine submerged to save it from destruction."

On Fourth Patrol

The gallant commander, first submarine officer to win the medal of honor in this war, was on his fourth war patrol against the Japanese.

Previously his submarine had been credited with sinking a total of 25,446 tons of enemy shipping and in addition with having struck boldly into an enemy harbor and attacked three enemy destroyers caught unaware there, sinking two and damaging one.

These exploits had been reported by the Navy but they never had been identified with Gilmore. In fact, he operated under the anonymity which shrouds many a submarine's operations.

William H. Wiles, 34, torpedoman first class, of Route 1, Bysville, Ohio was one of several officers and enlisted men decorated with the Navy and Marine Corps medals for their work with Gilmore's patrol.

CITY IS PLANNING INSPECTION TOUR

Study Fire Truck Bids, Decide To See Machines In Action

After hearing representatives of the four companies explain the merits of their respective fire trucks, the city board of control decided yesterday afternoon to inspect these trucks in cities which have them in use.

The four companies which recently answered the city's advertisement for bids to purchase a 500-gallon pumper include the American LaFrance Foamite Co. of Elmira, N. Y., the Ward-LaFrance Truck Corp., New York City, the Mack International Truck Co., Pittsburgh, and the Buffalo Fire Apparatus Corp., Buffalo, N. Y.

Bids ranged from $6,250, offered by the Ward-LaFrance firm, to $7,275 as bid by the American LaFrance company.

Mayor R. R. Johnson said members of the board and Fire Chief Vincent Malloy would go to Canton, probably Monday, to inspect a Mack truck and later would visit Cleveland to view a pumper manufactured by the Buffalo firm.

Pittsburgh and the board of control members expect to inspect the LaFrance trucks.

LIBERATORS BOMB TOE OF DUCE'S BOOT

CAIRO, May 7.—More than 50 American Liberator bombers strewed a quarter of a million pounds of high explosives over Reggio Di Calabria harbor on the toe of the Italian boot in daylight yesterday. U. S. Army fliers who took part in the raid said today.

"Almost all the bombs found their mark," said Colonel Keith K. Compton of St. Joseph, Mo., who led the attack. "Flames spurted thousands of feet into the air" from one of the two large merchant vessels which received direct hits, he said.

One Liberator failed to return, but the Americans shot down at least one enemy plane of the group that attempted to intercept them.

Hits also were scored on moles and harbor installations, a U. S. Army communiqué said.

SALEM'S CAN DRIVE TOPS SIX-TON MARK

Washingtonville and Salem Township Contribute 925 Lbs.

Salem's tin can salvage drive just ended netted six and one-half gross tons, Service Director Frank Wilson reported today.

This amount was increased by 750 pounds gathered at Washingtonville and another 175 pounds contributed by Salem township residents.

The tin cans were taken to the Salem Concrete & Supply Co. yards, Wilson st. and the railroad tracks to be loaded on a gondola car for shipment to a detinning factory at Pittsburgh.

This probably will not be done immediately so that persons who still have flattened tin cans to contribute to the drive may take them to the yard.

The tonnage proved to be only about half of the 15 tons which the War Production board had anticipated would be collected in this area, Wilson explained.

Allied Planes Dominate Sky Over War Area

Enemy Collapsing Before U. S. Second Corps and British First Army; 25 Enemy Vessels Sunk In Tunisian Straits

BULLETIN (By Associated Press)

WITH U. S. FORCES IN NORTHERN TUNISIA, May 7.—American troops took Ferryville, eight miles from Bizerte, at 1 p. m. (9 a. m. Eastern War time) today.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 7.—Allied troops have penetrated into the outskirts of both Bizerte and Tunis, it was officially announced at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters today.

Heavy fighting was reported in progress in both sectors as the U. S. Second Corps and the British First Army capitalized on deep penetrations through collapsing enemy positions all along the northern Tunisian front.

"Our troops have continued their victorious advance," a special communiqué said.

Reconnaissance elements were said to have made the penetration of the Bizerte suburbs. Many more prisoners were taken, it was announced.

Armored units of the British First Army captured La Bardo, on the highway at the western edge of Tunis, the communiqué stated.

Allied planes, completely dominating the sky, maintained heavy attacks upon Axis transport columns which clogged the roads of retreat.

A broadcast by Grant Parr, NBC reporter, said 5 enemy ships had been "sunk in the Tunisian straits," this suggesting another powerful sweep against surface transports which might attempt to withdraw the Axis survivors.

"The spirit of the German troops appears to have been broken," Parr said.

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, Nazi military commentator, said in a Berlin broadcast recorded by Reuters that French native troops had penetrated the inner fortifications of Bizerte. This went even beyond the Allied account placing Allied detachments in the outskirts.

(The NBC broadcast said American scouting parties made the penetration of the suburbs.)

(The German high command said the Allies had penetrated German and Italian positions deeply at one point, "although numerous enemy attacks were repulsed and 12 enemy tanks were destroyed and several hundred prisoners were taken.")

The communiqué said the Allied infantry and tank formations were greatly superior and were supported by strong air force units.)

200 Hear Talk On Canning, Storing

Two hundred women turned out for the nutrition class meeting of the Health For Victory club Thursday night in the High school auditorium when canning topics were discussed and demonstrated by Miss Dorothy Trowbridge, Youngstown home economist.

Sixty-five new registrations were accepted. The presentation of club's charter was delayed until the next meeting.

Lewis Freeman, chairman of the committee of the Lions club which is sponsoring the monthly Health For Victory series, opened the meeting. He introduced Glenn Thayer of Youngstown, master of ceremonies, who, in turn, introduced Miss Trowbridge.

Mrs. Matt Green and her committee were in charge of registration. The next meeting will be held June 3 at the High school when the subject of dehydration will be taken up.

It was announced that anyone wanting one of the meal planning guides should contact Mr. Freeman at the People's drug store or William Rae at the Brooks clothing store.

Falls To Death

COLUMBUS, May 7.—Pvt. William Tobin, 22, of Syracuse, N. Y., stationed at Lockbourne air base, died early today in a plunge from the fourth floor of a downtown hotel.

"I thought I would be burned inside the plane, or what was left of it. There I was for 30 hours before a rescue party found me. It took an hour to dig me out."

From the conversation Elsel said he heard on the intercommunications between the pilot and navigator, they found the airfield but decided to try another field because of poor visibility. "But there it was impossible to land, so we went back to the first one," he said.

"I thought I would be burned inside the plane, or what was left of it. There I was for 30 hours before a rescue party found me. It took an hour to dig me out."

He was carried a mile and a half on a stretcher to an ambulance. His injuries were a cut foot and lacerations on his left hand.

Elsel said that Gen. Andrews was at the controls of the plane for some of the journey from England to Iceland but that before they attempted to land a captain had taken over.

LONDON, May 7.—Appointment of Maj. Gen. Idwal Hubert Edwards, 48, as acting chief of staff in the European theater of operations was announced today by the U. S. Army.

He succeeds Brig. Gen. Charles H. Barth, 39, who was killed last Monday in a plane accident in Iceland that also took the lives of Lieut. Gen. Frank M. Andrews and 12 others.

PROPORTIONAL MISREPRESENTATION

Starting in 1951, according to a curious bill which the Ohio senate has passed, Ohio's congressional districts would be reshuffled into 23 units, instead of 22. Thereafter, boundaries would be fixed by a board of appointment under rules insuring a permanent, self-regulating system to maintain the districts with approximately the same population in each.

Meanwhile, the state's population would have shifted and might have increased to the point where Ohio would be entitled to more than 23 seats. Or the population might have decreased, with the opposite effect on the state's representation in congress. In other words, redistricting is something that needs to be done just after a national census, or it doesn't mean anything.

The fact is, of course, that the legislature's latest redistricting proposal doesn't mean anything anyway. Every legislature goes through the motions of doing something about redistricting, but since the redistricting after the census of 1910 no legislature has reached first base. The reason is, of course, simple. When Democrats are in the saddle, they want to gerrymander the state to their advantage. When the Republicans hold the reins, they want to fix up the districts to favor them. Each party distrusts the other, and with good reason.

All this is in violation of the Constitution of the United States, of course, because it provides in Article I, Section 3, for determining the proper proportional representation in the Lower house of congress every 10 years, a requirement that has been flouted in this state ever since the census of 1920. The result has been to give some urban sections of the state's population less than half as much representation as certain rural sections. Equitable redistricting is not impossible as a matter of theory, but the first man who devises a way to get an equitable plan through the legislature will deserve a statue on the statehouse grounds.

The senate bill now goes to the house, where in due course of time, unless something totally unexpected happens, it will be forgotten like all its predecessors.

SUBSIDIZED COAL PRODUCTION

In the light of the common expectation that United Mine Workers will be able to get in effect from the government what they could not get in principle from private operation—a substantial increase in income—the possible result of long-continued government operation of the coal industry is being examined.

If the private operators are correct in their argument that the industry cannot stand an increase in the wage factor of operating costs in the coal mining industry, and if government operation continues, perhaps for the duration of the war, subsidized coal production is a distinct possibility. The situation would be similar to that in the railroad industry under government operation during the last war.

One of the first moves was to increase the income of railroad employees. Freight rates also were raised, yet the net cost to the public of 26 months of government operation was estimated by Walker D. Hines, who succeeded William G. McAdoo as director general of railroads, at $1,123,500,000. Mr. Hines justified this as an expenditure essential to the war effort, explaining that if it had not been made—that is, if the railroads had remained in private hands—an essential service would have suffered.

In the case of the coal industry, it has not been made clear how long the government expects to operate the mines, but it is beginning to be clear that if temporary operation has the effect of increasing operating costs the owners, themselves, might welcome government operation and government subsidy of any deficit for the duration as the only means of averting bankruptcy.

GET THE TAXPAYERS' STORY

The senate now has a chance to rescue taxpayers from the muddled tax plan imposed on them by the house of representatives.

Everything has been put into the house bill but the kitchen sink. It is a political-legislative stew composed of bitter partisanship and financial confusion. The only excuse for it is that the house could do no better under the existing situation of jealousy and 1944 campaign fence-fixing.

The senate is in a position to do a better job, and if it did the house then might be able to save itself from the consequences of its own ineptitude. As Rep. Carlson of Kansas, author of the only clear personal to be submitted during house debate of income tax reform, declared Monday: "No problem is permanently solved until it is correctly solved. The tax problem is no exception to this rule."

The question is: Should personal income taxpayers be placed on a current basis? If the answer is yes, then they should be put on a current basis. If the answer is no, then there is no merit in halfway measures.

The first thing the senate should do is arrange to call as witnesses on tax reform representative taxpayers from various income groups. The American people want to pay their taxes currently; their judgment should be given more weight than the judgment of citizens who may be experts in politics and the use of taxation to accomplish social objectives but clearly don't know beans about the problems of taxpayers.

KEY MEN MUST BE REPLACEABLE

Death of Lieut. Gen. Frank M. Andrews and other military officials in an airplane crash in Iceland is another reminder that total, global war is vastly different from the out-dated, narrow concepts of conflict.

Gen. Andrews was commander-in-chief of American forces in the European war theater, a key man. His loss undoubtedly will complicate the conduct of the war in that area. But really serious complications would reflect weakness in the war organization.

Generals are exposed to extraordinary risk in modern warfare; many already have been killed. Unless they are replaceable with a minimum of dislocation, there is a weakness in military staff organization. All key men should work under standing instructions to divide responsibility as equitably as possible with those immediately under them as insurance against the contingency of death, a rule that should be applied all the way to the top of the war organization. His countrymen mourn Gen. Andrews' untimely death while hoping it may not interfere with the business at hand, which is to win the war against Germany.

A PARTICULARLY lively and exciting day is forecast from the predominant planetary vibrations, albeit much of this activity may demand regulation, vigilance and shrewdness. There may be encouragement for attacking new and possibly spectacular projects, inaugurating fresh programs for advancing old interests in which the public or community may be lucratively concerned. Adhering to sensible codes, in all contacts, may avert danger or regret.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of much liveliness and all around activity, with new, fresh or novel interests under excellent impetus for success or probably unexpected achievement. four points for investigation: a cured oblique inguinal hernia, a cured umbilical hernia, some suspected indication of tuberculosis in his youth and his inability to sleep while lying on the left side.

Puzzling Points Settled
The great advances in the science of pathology since Sir Astley's day, with the accumulation of knowledge that has resulted from the public about the desirability of autopsies, have settled all the points that may have puzzled Sir Astley about his hernias and his tuberculosis.

We know all about the pathology and nature of these diseases now, or at least we have a practically complete working knowledge. But the old controversy about sleeping on the side or the back or the abdomen still pops up. As a matter of fact, the autopsy was performed on Sir Astley's body after death and nothing was found which accounted for his inability to sleep on his left side; he had some adhesions around the gallbladder, but that should point to an inability to sleep on the right side if anything.

Studies of Sleeping Positions
The question pops up again and again and lately, in an issue of The Lancet, a physician in Birmingham state that he has for many years made notes of the positions which his patients took during sleep and has made inquiries from every available colleague or friend.

"It soon became clear," he states, "that this was definitely characteristic for each individual. The individual seldom varied the position and when he did he was fully conscious that he had made a change."

Sleeping Habits
Sleeping habits hang with age changes. Children like to sleep on their abdomen, face down, and many people retain this infantile habit until quite late in life. Most adults, if they take a nap in the day, do not sleep on the back. Most adults at night sleep on one side or the other, moving from side to side.

Disease sometimes makes some difference in sleeping habits. The Birmingham physician found that people with angina pectoris avoided sleeping on the left side. This is partially understandable because angina pectoris means pain in the heart, the heart is on the left side and that side would naturally be avoided.

Subjects of Speculation
Do sleeping habits induce any diseases? The gentleman from Birmingham thinks that they do. He believes that sleeping on the abdomen for any long period in life is inclined to induce liver and gallbladder disease. He says: "I asked patients specifically if there was any period in their lives when they slept on their abdomen. Many people who did so for long periods were cases of either past or present liver or gallbladder disease."

While these observations are interesting for speculation, I would be very skeptical as to their real value.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A. R.:—What would cause a boy, 17 years old, to have one side of the chest sunk in? Does this have any effect on the heart? Would it hinder him from passing an Army physical test?

Answer: A deformity of this kind is probably due to rickets, which was acquired in childhood. It does not affect the heart. Whether or not he can pass an Army examination would depend on how extensive it is.

J. Z.:—Is chronic mastitis dangerous, and in what way? Answer: Chronic mastitis is a chronic inflammation of the female breast. It is sometimes mistaken for cancer. Sometimes it causes considerable discomfort, but otherwise is not dangerous.

V. Y.:—What is multiple neuritis? What causes it? What is the cure?

Answer: Multiple neuritis is an inflammation or degeneration of the nerves of the legs and causes clumsiness in muscular motion. A great many different things cause it; overuse of alcohol; lead is another; some infectious diseases such as diphtheria affect the nerves in this way; lack of vitamin B in the diet is the basis of most cases.

R. M.:—Please advise in which foods I will find vitamins B1 and D. Answer:—Vitamin B1 is found in

ITALY QUAKES AS DISASTER NEARS

Unrest Grows As Allies Drive Axis Out of North Africa

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Mussolini the duc and his stooges are giving a realistic exhibition of condemned men saying farewell after walking their last mile.

That really isn't surprising, if you make allowance for the emotional strain they must be undergoing as they see disaster nose-diving on them. There can be small doubt that Italy is facing a crisis.

Word from Tunis—lying only 90 miles from Sicily—is that the Allies today continue to press in about the cornered Axis forces in the Boue and Tunis sectors for the coup de grace. Many ominous signs warrant the Italians in fearing an Allied invasion of their fatherland as Tunis falls.

Report Convoy Moving

Indeed, the Paris radio says a big Allied convoy has sailed from Gibraltar. It's reported to include 20 transports loaded with landing barges and armored vehicles. What would such a convoy be up to, wondering about the Mediterranean?

Unrest is seething in the Balkans—the territory Mussolini once naively considered his "sphere of influence," while Hitler grinned. The Turks are polishing up the buttons on their uniforms—just in case.

Small wonder, then, that the Italian dictator should be quaking. I'll wager he has bigger pouches under his eyes than I saw him wearing at the Munich conference. Then he was terrified Hitler would go to war; now he's terrified because he knows Hitler can't make war vigorously enough to save Italy.

On the anniversary of Mussolini's coronation of his empire in 1936, he has declared to his people:

"The great enterprise is not finished; it is simply interrupted. We will return."

Carlo Scorzia, secretary of the Fascist party, has told Italy: "Should we fall, we must fall with honor and dignity."

Won't Likely Return

So Mussolini and his henchmen are preparing their country for the shock of final defeat. But he won't return to his African empire. Little Halle Sciascia has resumed the throne of the Lion of Judah. Other territories have gone by the board. Mussolini should have been with me when I toured his great colonization zone in Libya a short time ago.

The colonists had fled with Montgomery's advance, and the Senussi had come back from the desert to which the Italians had driven them. Thousands of neatly whitewashed farm houses, with "duce" painted in letters two feet high on their walls, stood as white markers of the grave of his imperial dreams.

The Allied high command continues to let the Axis do all the talking about invasion plans. The only thing we can say with certainty is that it would be logical for the United Nations to strike a quick blow at least against Sicily and Sardinia in conjunction with the finish of the Tunisian battle.

Such an operation would serve the double purpose of unblocking the shipping route through the Sicilian channel and paving the way for invasion of the Italian mainland. If these two great islands were seized immediately, this also would effectively cut off the escape of any more Axis troops from Tunisia, since they have been making Sicily and Sardinia their first refuge in running the gantlet.

DRIVERS MAY USE SINGLE NEW PLATE

COLUMBUS, May 7.—Ohio motorists may sport a single new license plate on their cars in 1944, instead of two or a windshield sticker, if the house goes along with the senate on the proposal.

The upper chamber unanimously passed a measure yesterday permitting automobile and truck owners to drive next year with a single license plate. The bill now goes to the house.

Senator Frank E. Whittemore, Republican floor leader, said information received by the state bureau of motor vehicles indicated the government would make available enough metal for one 1944 tag a car.

State enforcement officers indicated when steel shortages began to develop that single plates would be displayed on the rear of motor vehicles if only one were used.

Because of steel scarcity, motor-vehicles were issued windshield stickers authorizing use this year of 1942 licenses.

The senate also passed a house-approved measure authorizing release, without examination, to service men of any license to practice a profession or trade held by them prior to entering the armed forces.

The house approved a bill to allow service men to hunt, fish and trap without a license. The measure now goes to the senate.

FARM MACHINERY OUTLOOK IS BETTER

DES MOINES, Ia., May 7.—Gov. B. B. Hickenlooper said today the farm machinery and manpower situation "is on the high road to improvement as a result of attention called to the shortcomings of national policy by the governors' conference here."

Governors of eight midwestern states met here March 15 to discuss farm operation difficulties stemming from wartime restrictions.

The governor said that since March 15 "approximately the same recommendations as those adopted by the conference have been announced as changed policies of the national administration."

SEVEN ARE FIRED IN AKRON DISPUTE

AKRON, May 7.—A three-hour work stoppage which threatened to halt Akron Transportation company service ended with dismissal of seven employees, D. Lyle Mahan, business manager for the AFL International Machinists union, reported.

An assistant storekeeper and six other repair shop workers were discharged, he said, after a dozen AFL machinists walked out yesterday, claiming the company refused to dismiss a CIO union member and dues-delinquent employee.

A regional War Labor board arbitrator had held the AFL had jurisdiction over repair shop workers under a union contract, he explained.

Frank Wirt, public relations director for the company, said the walkout tied up half the rubber city's street cars and buses, which carry thousands of war workers to their jobs, and threatened to halt service entirely.

REDS DRIVE WEDGE INTO AXIS FORCES

Split Nazis and Rumanians, Closing Net Around Novorossisk

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, May 7.—The Red army, smashing forward in increasingly violent battles which have cost the Germans nearly 10,000 dead, has driven a wedge between German and Rumanian forces operating north and south of the Kuban river in the Caucasus and is tightening its net about Novorossisk, front line dispatches reported today.

Aided by string air forces, the Soviet troops cut one road after another in the Kuban valley, severing Axis supply lines and avenues of escape.

One dispatch said the Russians cut an important road and captured a height dominating the approaches to a large city, the name of which was not given.

Red Star, the army newspaper, said the Germans were pouring in more reserves, along with more tanks and planes.

Immediately northeast of Novorossisk the terrain is extremely difficult, full of terraces and steep hills. The Germans, and their Rumanian satellites, are dug in deeply here, and are fighting fiercely, it was said.

Can't Fall Back

German prisoners told their captors the German officers had orders to shoot every man who fell back.

A dispatch from Izvestia, the government newspaper, said special groups had been organized to bury the Axis dead and that one of these groups buried about 2,000 soldiers yesterday.

West of captured Krymskaya the Red army managed to drive one part of a large Axis force to one side of the swamp and river and pursued another force down the opposite side of the river.

(The midnight Soviet communiqué said five German counter-attacks, each succeeding one more bitter, were fought off in the region of Neberdjayevskaya, which is only nine miles from Novorossisk. There were some reports that the Russians were only five miles from the Black sea port off which Red fleet warships stood ready to block an evacuation attempt.)

German broadcasts said the Russians were attempting to flank the north end of the battle zone with water-borne troops sent from Rostov across the Sea of Azov, and claimed that German bombers destroyed 11 Soviet barges in that region, and that 18 boats carrying Russian troops were sunk in an attempt to cross the Kuban river at a point in the Taman peninsula.)

SELFLEDGE FIELD PROBE IS ORDERED

Two Shootings Within 24 Hours Draw Congressional Attention

SELFLEDGE FIELD, Mich., May 7.—A second shooting—the wounding of a civilian by a sentry—occurred at Selfledge field today, less than 24 hours after the disclosure that the former commanding officer of this army air base had been arrested following the wounding of a Negro private.

Rep. Shafer (R-Mich.) said at Washington he had been assured by Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military affairs committee that an investigation of the shooting of the private would be made.

Capt. Richard Ramey, public relations officer at the base, said today's shooting occurred at 4 a. m. when Pvt. William Bridges, 23-year-old Negro from Montclair, N. J., fired a shot into the chest of a civilian who had ignored three challenges and three warning shots.

The wounded civilian was identified as William H. Hasse, 54, whose last known address was Grand Rapids, Mich. His condition at the army base hospital here was reported as "fair."

Ramey said Bridges reported Hasse and another civilian apparently climbed over a fence on the south side of Selfledge field, that when challenged, neither of the men answered but continued to advance towards the sentry, who fired three warning shots before taking aim at one of the intruders. The other civilian escaped in the darkness.

An official statement issued said Pvt. William McRae, 24, motor vehicle driver for the base garage, was wounded at approximately 1 a. m. Wednesday by a revolver shot "allegedly fired by" Colonel Colman.

No further details were given. McRae's condition was reported "fair."

A band of wild peccaries will attack a hunter who kills or wounds one of them.

Important Announcement!

Government Lifts Restrictions On Re-roofing and Re-siding With Asbestos Shingles.

Special Ruling Is Made To Meet Critical War Problem

MANY HOME OWNERS have been postponing re-roofing and repairs to their homes because of their fear that only temporary materials would be available. Many others have obtained the impression that to have such work done would be contrary to the interest of winning the war.

If your home needs re-roofing, if the sidewalls need painting or repair, a special W. P. B. ruling just issued removes the restrictions on the use of asbestos shingles for this purpose. There is no longer any reason for you to postpone having this work done.

PRE-WAR QUALITY — — PRE-WAR PRICES

Johns-Manville Asbestos Shingles are manufactured to the same fireproof, durable quality standards as before the war. They are available at pre-war prices, too.

If your home needs painting or repair, we recommend J-M Asbestos Siding Shingles. They need no preservative treatment — are fireproof — permanent as stone — and will completely transform the appearance of your home. If you need a new roof, we recommend J-M Asbestos Roofing Shingles. They have the same desirable maintenance-free qualities.

Protect your home for today and for the future. We will be glad to show you samples of the new styles and new textures of these colorful shingles.

Long asbestos spinning fibre is an essential material in many war products. In mining asbestos for every ton of long asbestos fibre, many tons of shorter fibre must be produced. This shorter fibre must be utilized, and its principal use is in the manufacture of asbestos shingles. Restrictions were therefore lifted to increase the use of asbestos shingles and thereby insure an adequate supply of long asbestos fibre vitally needed for war.

SEDITION TRIAL DATE SET BY U. S.

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, May 7.—Five persons including two women, charged with harboring a fugitive indicted for criminal sedition, will go on trial May 26 in federal court here, U. S. Attorney Charles F. Uhl said today.

The five were re-indicted under the May grand jury yesterday under the general harboring statute. Uhl explained this was a technical legal move "to buttress the government's case." The first indictment was returned last November.

Accused are Adelaide Marion Pelley of Noblesville, Ind., daughter of William Dudley Pelley, convicted Silver Shirt leader; Marguerite Marie Carmichael, alias Mrs. C. E. Sutherland of Noblesville, formerly secretary to Pelley; Victor Warren Hove of New Castle, Pa.; Frank W. Mariner of Poland, O., and Henry Herman Meine of New Galilee, Pa.

The government alleges that all five provided food, clothing and shelter for Howard Victor Broenstrup, described by FBI agents as "one of the most sought after federal fugitives of the country," who was arrested by a squad of federal agents and Pennsylvania state police in November at a summer cottage near New Galilee, Pa.

While a four-fold increase in population of the nation occurred between 1860 and 1940, San Francisco bay area population increased 15 times.

CLEVELAND, May 7.—Damage was reckoned at $50,000 today after fire swept a two-story business and apartment building on Cleveland's southside, forcing 12 persons to flee.

Five children and three adults safely made their way from second-floor suites through dense smoke that enveloped five firemen on the building's roof and obscured for a time ladders by which they sought to return to the street. Four adults were forced to leave first-floor stores.

The fire broke out late yesterday in the basement of the building, underneath a paint store, but the cause was not determined, firemen reported.

FDR SENDS LETTER TO SOVIET CHIEF

Joseph E. Davies Leaving At Once For Visit With Stalin

WASHINGTON, May 7.—President Roosevelt said today Joseph E. Davies would leave at once for Moscow to carry a personal letter from the President to Joseph Stalin.

The chief executive fended off all attempts of reporters at a press conference to gain information on the contents of or whether Davies would bring back a reply. He said Davies, former ambassador to Russia, does not know himself what is in the letter.

There have been conjectures that the President might propose a meeting with the Russian leader similar to that he has held with Winston Churchill, British prime minister.

Mr. Roosevelt told the reporters, however, that their guesses always had been wrong in the past.

Davies will not be gone very long and will come right back, Mr. Roosevelt said. He said he assumed his personal envoy would learn the contents of the document in Moscow, discuss them, and then return.

To an inquiry as to whether Davies would bring a reply, the chief executive asserted that his questioner was assuming the letter called for a reply.

"Will it?" he was asked.

With a grin, he replied that nobody had seen the letter, except himself and his personal secretary, Miss Grace Tully.

"Did you write it in English?" a reporter wanted to know.

No, Irish, the president retorted.

PARTY LINES DRAWN FOR BATTLE ON VETO

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Party lines were drawn today for a rough and tumble battle on a Republican proposal to subject President Roosevelt to congressional veto powers which Democratic leaders contended would amount to a "kiss of death" for the reciprocity program.

Republicans charge that the reciprocal trade act in its present form entails an unconstitutional delegation of the tariff and treaty-making powers of congress.

The floor fight begins Monday when the legislators turn to a bill to extend the trade act for three years beyond the June 12 expiration date.

Continuation of the authority was recommended yesterday by a majority of ways and means committee Democrats.

CLAIMS POLES HAD
SPIED ON SOVIETS

Moscow Commissar asserts
Some Have Admitted
Their Guilt

MOSCOW, May 7.—Andrei J. Vishinski, vice commissar for foreign affairs, told American and British newspapermen today representatives of the Polish government-in-exile in London had engaged in espionage activities in Russia and declared some of those involved already had admitted their guilt and been sentenced.

Former Ambassador Stanislaw Kot himself, Vishinski asserted, had admitted being involved in these activities and had expressed his regret.

Kot is now serving as minister of information with the Polish government in London, a post to which he was appointed last March 1941.

Asked why the Poles should be engaged in espionage in Russia—a nation with which they signed a mutual assistance and friendship agreement on July 30, 1941—Vishinski replied:

"Nobody spies out of charity." The accusations against the Polish representatives were contained in a paper which Vishinski read to the correspondents and which he said had been sent to the Polish government in London.

The paper also accused Polish military leaders of refusing to send to the Soviet-German front the Polish army which was organized in Russia with the cooperation of Soviet authorities.

Answering a question as to the possibility of a resumption of diplomatic relations between the Soviet and Polish governments, Vishinski said:

"There is nothing in the world which cannot be changed."

He added, however, in concluding the conference:

"The Polish government is responsible for the rupture of relations and therefore it is for the Polish government to take concrete steps, and one cannot discuss the question in the abstract. How, when and in what direction depends on concrete conditions."

Russia severed relations with the Polish government in exile after the latter had asked the International Red Cross to investigate German charges the Russians had slain 10,000 Polish officers in the Smolensk region prior to the Russian-German war.

Ohioan Member of
"Flying Artillery"

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN BOMBER BASE IN TUNISIA, May 6.—(Delayed)—Lieut. James H. Ullett, of East Sparta, O., is one of the American airmen receiving a large share of the credit heaped on crews of A-20 Boston bombers for helping to push German press German and Italian forces back on their heels in Tunisia's "coffin corner."

The Bostons, dubbed "the flying artillery," have blasted Axis forces with nearly 3,000,000 pounds of high explosives in hundreds of sorties with less than a one per cent loss to themselves, an accomplishment paralleling the record of the famous Flying Fortresses.

This most experienced light bombardment unit in the American air forces has been operating in such close support of United Nations ground forces it is virtually "glued" to them, moving its bases almost as often as the infantry.

The bomber crews are called out when ground forces encounter fixed fortifications they are unable to reduce with artillery and within an hour are smashing at the target, their missions coordinated with RAF Spitfire squadrons which escort the Bostons.

The most difficult target for air support to locate is a specific hill position, said Maj. Richard E. Horner, a squadron leader.

"From the air all hills look pretty much alike," Horner said.

The Boston pilots keep close tabs on battling ground troops.

"When things are tough on the ground and the Germans are moving up, it's tough in the air too," Horner asserted.

"The Germans carry lots of punch when they're moving forward. But when they start retreating, we really get in our kicks."

"The ground force makes it easy for us and we make it easy for them."

MAY EXTEND CONTROL
WASHINGTON, May 7.—With all signs pointing to a tight livestock feed supply situation for the rest of the war, the administration soon may extend its control over the distribution of corn, other feed grains and protein feeds to assure their efficient use.

Although no official decisions have been made, serious consideration is being given to proposals for government requisitioning of corn from growers, feeders and others having supplies deemed in excess of current requirements, and for the rationing of protein feeds made from fish meal, tankage, meat scraps, cottonseed and soybeans.

From a national standpoint, the supply of corn, assuming good weather, would be sufficient to meet anticipated needs of dairy, dog, poultry and cattle farmers. However, most of the corn is concentrated in the mid-west and tend to remain there.

WALL STREET
NEW YORK, May 7. — Buyers continued to nibble at selected stocks in today's market but further profit taking in others blurred the trend picture to some extent.

Individual spots of strength appeared after a fairly lively and indefinite opening and, while losers were plentiful near the fourth hour, most set-backs were small. Rails were among the few soft groups.

Optimistic war news remained as a buying argument. Commitments were trimmed in certain cases on thoughts of a possible technical correction following the string of 3-year highs.

Stocks at peak levels for 1943 or longer included Budd Mfg., preferred and common, Pepsi-Cola, Standard Oil (N.J.), Du Pont, Montgomery Ward and J. I. Case. Resistant were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott and Philip Morris. Among intermittent casualties were American Telephone, Chrysler, General Motors, Anaconda, Westinghouse, Douglas Aircraft and radio Corp.

An induction station official said physical reasons led to Welles' rejection. The actor explained he suffers from a back ailment.

REVENUE BILL NOT FAIR, CLAIMS STAM

Tax Expert Says Heavy
Payers Bound to Express
Resentment

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Colin F. Stam, chief of the congressional tax staff, testified today that the house-approved revenue bill failed to put all taxpayers on a pay-as-you-go basis and would cause resentment among those who contribute 60 per cent of taxes.

Stam appeared before the senate finance committee in a brief public meeting preceding a closed session at which advocates hoped to force a showdown on the question of substituting a version of the Ruml-Carlson "skip a year" plan for current taxation for the house-approved bill.

The congressional tax expert told the committee the house bill, which would excuse the first 6 per cent normal tax and the 13 per cent first bracket surtax in putting into effect a 20 per cent withholding levy on wages and salaries, would "most almost as much as complete forgiveness" of 1942 taxes, as proposed in the Ruml-Carlson plan.

Stam said that abatement under the house bill would eliminate 1943 tax liability for a single person with no dependents whose income did not exceed $2,500 and a married person, with no dependents, whose net earnings did not exceed $3,200. Those with dependency allowances could make more and still have all of their 1942 tax excused.

Above these levels, however, he said are 24 per cent of the taxpayers who paid about 60 per cent of the total of income taxes. He added that they would not be placed on a current basis and would have to make two complicated tax returns yearly.

"These taxpayers will resent being required to make computations for two separate years when they are not being put on a current basis, and since they pay about 60 per cent of the tax, I think their complaints might be given some weight," Stam declared.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) said he saw no reason why a committee vote on taxes could not be had this afternoon.

GIRAUD, DE GAULLE
UNION PROPOSED

LONDON, May 7.—The independent French news agency reported today Gen. Henri Giraud had proposed to Gen. Charles DeGaulle that they join forces by establishing a "provisional central power" in North Africa with themselves presiding.

The proposal, the news agency said, was contained in a letter dispatched by Giraud from Algiers on April 27.

The letter pointed out, it was added, that Giraud and DeGaulle would not form a "du-univerte," since the responsibility would be shared by members of an executive committee and other officials of the "central power," which would consist at first of the present French overseas council and later of consultative bodies.

The agency quoted Giraud as saying that when France liberated a government must then be set up on a legal basis emanating from pre-armistice legislation.

As previously announced, Giraud asked that DeGaulle meet him somewhere in North Africa other than Algiers and that they proceed to Algiers together after reaching an agreement.

DeGaulle has insisted all along that he wishes to meet Giraud in Algiers.

OHIO WILL RATION
LIQUOR ON JUNE 1

Date Set by Director Fisher:
Allowances Are Not Set Yet

All retail liquor outlets will be closed between May 17 and June 1 to allow personnel to issue ration books, meanwhile enabling the department to build up store stocks against the first rationing rush.

Ration Book Schedule
Fisher announced this as the daily schedule for issuing ration books by residence zones at the respective stores:

May 17—Persons whose surnames start with letters A and B; May 18—C and D; May 19—E and F and G; May 20—H and I and J; May 21—K and L; May 22—A-L whose surnames begin with letters A to L, inclusive, whose cards previously were not issued.

May 24—Letters M and N; May 25—O, P, Q and R; May 26—S; May 27—T, U, V, W, X, Y and Z. May 28-29—all entitled to cards who previously did not obtain them.

Evidence of identification, to be designated later, will be required before books are issued, Fisher said. Ration books will be made available to members of the armed forces based in Ohio. Fisher said service men and women will be able to qualify for the initial ration period—possibly of two or three weeks' duration—under a separate program. Registration forms are being forwarded to army posts and naval headquarters in the state for members of the services.

"Naturally, the WAACS, WAVES, SPARS and other female branches of service are included," Fisher said.

An improved design for a bomb fin in mass production will save enough steel to build two Liberty ships.

COMPENSATION IS APPROVED BY STATE

COLUMBUS, May 7.—The Ohio Industrial commission today awarded $7,000 to Dorothy Jean Nelson, 21, and her three-year-old daughter, widow and child of John W. Nelson, 23, who was killed with two companions March 23 when a truck load of liquid air cartridges exploded near Cadiz.

Nelson's fellow workers were Roy Marker, 19, and Leonard D. Baker, 22, all employed by the Ohio Lx Co. of Bloomingsdale. Only remnants of their bodies were found for burial.

Bernard Smith, Nelson's predecessor on the job, was killed in an explosion Aug. 10, 1941. Robert Nelson, employed by the same concern, and Henry Trusbel and Lawrence Johnson, employed by the Jefferson Co., were killed in a similar accident Feb. 24, 1937.

Compensation authorized as a result of the three blasts totals more than $20,000, the commission reported.

Freeze Dayton Prices
CLEVELAND, May 7.—The regional office of Price Administration today ordered the freezing of Dayton area restaurant prices on foods and all beverages at the highest levels charged by establishments in the base period of April 4 to 10.

Effective tomorrow, the order is permanent and applies to restaurants, hotels, delicatessens, soda fountains, boarding houses and all other food and beverage establishments operating in Montgomery county, the OPA said.

The order specifies that neither quality nor quantity of food served may be changed; that service charges such as for automobile parking, checking or cover charges may not be increased; that inexpensive meals may not be discontinued; and that any new restaurants are subject to the regulations.

Greek Post-War Food Plans Formulated At Cornell U.

(By United Press)

ITHACA, N. Y.—Post-war plans to restore the food-producing facilities of Axis-plundered Greece are being developed at Cornell university and upon completion will be submitted to Herbert H. Lehman, director of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation.

Lehman, former governor of New York state, has asked that the program be turned in as soon as possible. Both he and the office of foreign agricultural relations of the United States Department of Agriculture have approved the proposed reconstruction project.

The work will involve a study of the feeding of both humans and livestock, of crops, of the immediate need of livestock for work, milk and meat, and a livestock improvement program for different sections of Greece.

Within the scope of the research, for which the Near East foundation has financed a fellowship of $2,500, will come milk goats, dairy cows, poultry, including turkey, sheep, hogs and rabbits. Prof. F. B. Morrison of the animal husbandry department is in charge, with C. S. Stephanides a research fellow.

A dreary picture of food conditions in Greece has been painted by the Greek government-in-exile in London. Its report states that milk production has decreased from an average of 272,000 tons a year to 30,000; eggs from 30,000 tons to 3,000; butter, virtually none; wheat, down from 700,000 to 400,000 tons; and all other cereals reduced from 600,000 to 295,000 tons.

Stephanides, a Cornell alumnus, will have charge of the detailed work. Born in Pontus, Turkey, of Greek ancestry, he was among a group of a million and a half persons sent to Greece in an exchange of population in 1923.

Disappointed Thieves

MORAVIA, N. Y.—Burglars entering the office of Wheat brothers recently, yanked the heavy electric cash register from the wall. They dragged the huge money receptacle to the back of a railroad station some distance away, to take inventory of their booty. Total yield of the intruders' strong-arm work: $2.50.

Navy Printing War Maps At Rate Of 24,000,000 A Year

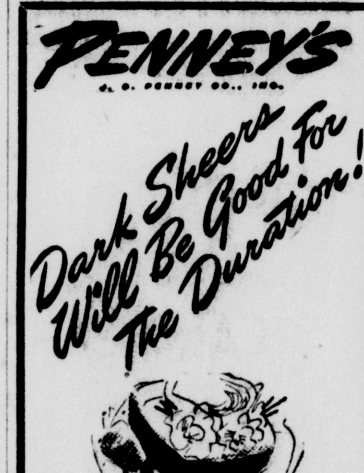

BY WILLIAM H. ADAMS
United Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON — It takes millions of maps to fight a war. The men who fight on land and sea and in the air must know—often in a matter of minutes or even seconds—where the enemy is or where their allies are.

For that reason the Navy is now printing maps and charts at the rate of 24,000,000 maps a year, or more than 50 times the number of maps it printed before the war.

This volume of publishing has taxed the hydrographic office of the Navy to the limit, but when the office moves to its new quarters at Suitland, Md., even this staggering output of geographical information is expected to be increased.

3,000 of Enemy Areas
Of the 13,000,000 maps and charts printed by the Navy during the fiscal year ended last June 30, about 3,000 were maps of enemy installations and coastal areas. Even before the war started charts were being made of all sections of the world, and for this purpose the department took over several ships from the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Many areas which had been poorly surveyed were charted again, and existing maps improved. The results of this work are now incorporated in what is known as the Air Pilot Series, and are loose-leaf bound.

Forest and Field
Fire Season Here

The season for field fires and forest fires is here. Already several bad fires have been seen in the southern part of Columbiana county.

Last fall the Ohio Division of Forestry established fire wardens in many of the Southeastern Ohio counties. The fire warden area includes five townships in southern Columbiana county. Within these townships no fire may be started without burning permits. These permits may be secured from any of the fire wardens, who are: Yellow Creek township, George Boyd; Madison, Dean Forbes; Washington township, R. B. Thorne and Elmer Loman; Franklin, Harvey Grubbs; Wade Clark and Forrest Finicum; Wayne, John Ewing.

There is no difficulty in securing a burning permit but it does help greatly in keeping the fire wardens informed as to where fires may be expected. Airplane patrol will cover the area three times each day during the dry season. Burning permits are needed during the spring months of March, April and May.

Townships other than those included in the fire area need no permits. Every person can help to keep Ohio Green by observing the following rules:

Smoke only while stopping in safe places. Observe "no smoking" rules. Break your match in two before throwing it away.

Be sure a cigaret stub is out before throwing it away.

Before building camp fire scrape away all inflammable material from a spot five feet in diameter.

Put out camp fire, dead out, before you leave.

Never burn brush in windy weather. Secure permit from fire warden. Put out any small fires you can. Report fires to fire warden at once.

Remember a burning match, a glowing cigaret or a smoldering camp fire can be just as disastrous to our forests as an incendiary bomb. Do your part.

Flying Fortress Crews Are Idolized By 'Little Men' Who Doctor Up the Ships

By EARLE POORBAUGH,

International News Service Staff Correspondent

AN AMERICAN FLYING FORTRESS STATION, England—When the engines of the big "Forts" at this station roar with energy, and the planes wing their way aloft to high adventure over enemy territory, the groundlings of the Air Force turn out en masse to watch them go.

There is little adventure in the life of these men who stay behind. They wear no silver wings, and most of the time their faces are greasy stained, their coveralls grimy and their backs and eyes tired from long hours of hard work keeping the Forts aloft.

Pfc. Henry Printz of 2568 S. Emerald ave., Chicago, is one of the groundlings here. He pilots a "jeep," rushing officer and crew men to their waiting Forts, speeding them to the nearby railroad station when they have occasional leave and meeting them upon their return from their missions.

Hope to Go Up in World

Printz is an expert with a jeep. Every day he turns in the best job he possibly can, for he has an ambition to become a member of the "Combat Crew," and is trying to "work my way up in the world."

Master Sergt. Wilford Trombley, of Bristol, Vt., and Master Sergt. Clements Amundson, of Black River Falls, Wis., are drivers, too. They drive six crews of maintenance men, day and night, overhauling and repairing the planes.

Actually, the two sergeants admit little need for driving their crews—each has three crews and three ships to keep flying. Their men are devoted to their big ships, and, filled with esprit de corps, each crew strives to out do all others in the amount of work done.

Worship Fortress Crews

These groundlings worship the men who fly their ships, night and day, when the bombers are on the ground they wipe and polish, tighten and adjust, change motors and make repairs.

Expert engine mechanics, armorers who keep the guns firing, sheet metal workers to patch up the wounds the Fort receives—all highly skilled artisans, compose the maintenance crews.

Since beginning their tasks here over a year ago, the two crews have lost half a dozen or so of their charges and have had others come back from raids with as many as three hundred holes shot through them by enemy action.

Under each of the "Flight Chiefs" are crew chiefs, like Master Sergt. Toode Motley, of Scottsville, Ky., who was assigned to certain Forts.

Sergt. Motley and his crew are responsible for the "Nora," their third plane—their last B-17 was lost over St. Nazaire.

Independent of all crews is Master Sergt. Francis McGarvey, of 32 Pine st., Nantucket, Mass., who is the technical inspector for this squadron. His comrades say he "has more sense and keeps out of work." Actually, he detects approaching trouble, recommends procedure and watches the progress of the work on all the ships.

Veteran Bosses Works

Master Sergt. Edgar A. Terry, of Oneida, Tenn., "does nothing and admits it." Officially he is known as a Line Chief—affectionately his men call him "The Bull of the Woods." With 25 years service in the Air Corps he remembers the Jennies and Liberties of 1918, and today, he "bosses everybody and everything on the maintenance line."

American daylight bombers have done a magnificent job in the six months or so they have been flying over enemy territory. Pilots and crewmen have won accolades and medals for their heroic conduct, honors which they richly deserved.

The humble groundling jeep drivers, cooks, clerks, ordnance and maintenance men glory in the achievements of their flying, fighting comrades, but they too, are proud of their part in keeping the Forts and Liberators flying.

"COMMANDO" SPENDS NIGHT IN "COOLER"

COLUMBUS, May 7—Seven-year-old Richard Peters was back home today, after spending a long, wet night in the "cooler."

The youngster, playing "commando" with neighbor boys last evening, was captured and placed in a "Nazi jail"—A large ice box. The game broke up, the other boys went home. Richard failed to appear, and police made an all-night search for him.

Early this morning a boy rapped at the Peters' door.

"Did Dick come home last night?" he asked.

Reading the answer on the faces of the anxious parents, the neighbor lad continued:

"I didn't think he did. I left him locked in the ice box, and didn't remember him until this morning."

Unable to open the box, the parents called the fire department, and the front was chopped from the "jail."

Dick's first remark, as he stepped out, was: "I'm hungry."

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly
On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 7—Pocket-book problems kept the capital busy today with these developments due to affect the average citizen's cash:

1—Senate supporters of the modified Ruml skip-a-year tax plan sought a committee showdown, seemingly sure of their votes.

2—Worried by wage disputes, the War Labor board headed swiftly toward a new stabilization crisis.

3—The War Manpower commission considered a nationwide 48-hour week, but probed its probable effect on prices.

4—The house stood its ground on economy quarrels, rejecting senate changes in appropriations bill.

Henderson Returns

Also high in the day's news was the start of a new Republican campaign against a fourth term—and the return of Leon Henderson to the Washington scene.

With the briefest public hearing the senate finance committee ever held on a major revenue bill slated to end this morning, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) looked for a decisive vote on pay-as-you-go legislation this afternoon—and predicted the result "will be written around the Ruml-Carlson bill." That measure would wipe out a full year's taxes, as compared to the house-approved 75 per cent abatement bill. Advocates claimed the support of at least a dozen of the 21 committee members.

Meanwhile, a three-man WLB panel continued the coal wage dispute hearings without representation or participation by the United Mine Workers who defied it, while an American Federation of Labor spokesman said the board was "tottering on its last legs," and storm signals multiplied elsewhere.

Board members who sought power to remove "inequalities" with wage increases gloomily reported they got no encouragement from Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes in a several-hour session yesterday, despite predictions that otherwise regional—and perhaps national—labor members of the WLB soon might be forced to resign, due to union pressure.

Wages and Prices

WMC officials said the nationwide 48-hour week was being considered but that it involved too many problems for a quick decision. Chief worry was that extension of the longer work week—now in force only in labor short areas and three industries—to the entire nation might bring demands for higher price ceilings to meet its premium pay.

Back on Capitol Hill, the house turned thumbs down on two of the senate's changes in its treasury-postoffice appropriations bill—one vote trimming $700,000 off the senate-set sum for foreign funds control. Today, a battle was expected on the house's refusal of franked mail privileges to government agencies, which the senate would grant.

The political front found the GOP national committee sending out to thousands of small newspapers a new clip-sheet, which carried a plea to dispel any belief that "there is but one among us qualified to rule," titled "on the home front," the clip-sheet said "we are all Americans together who dread the thought of perpetuating just one man in the White House."

And Henderson, former price administrator who once issued the rationing and price ceiling rules, came back in a private capacity to interpret them for business men—chairman of the board of editors of the Research Institute of America, Inc.

Back To Normal

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 7—Jacksonville returned to normal today after settlement of a strike which for 19 hours had the metropolitan area without bus service.

Thousands of citizens and war workers, who had thumbed ride, or turned pedestrian to get to work, were seeking ways to return home when an agreement was reached and the first buses appeared on the street late yesterday.

The tie-up resulted from a strike of 60 maintenance workers in a jurisdictional dispute between two American Federation of Labor unions.

POSSUM SHOWS UP JUST WHEN NEEDED
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Three-year-old Carolyn Parks liked to run away into the woods near her parents' suburban home.
Her father, Floyd Parks, sought to discourage such sojourns by telling her an opossum would get her if she didn't stop her wanderings.
Carolyn immediately demanded to see such an animal. To quell her pleadings her father took her on an imaginary hunt in the back yard. He poked in an old stump where—
A mamma possum scowled with a brood of little ones.
Carolyn stays home now.

MILKMAN UNDAUNTED BY FLAMES AND SCOWLS
LORAIN, O. — At least one Lorain milkman believes that, come what may, milk as well as the mails must go through. During the height of a recent fire, while firemen were running hither and thither with hose, axe and extinguishers, a delivery man for a local dairy nonchalantly entered the smoke-filled building with two wire containers filled with bottles of milk.

SHERIFF FINDS FUGITIVE IN OWN JAIL
CANON CITY, Colo. — Sheriff Foster Ranson spent two days hunting a fellow wanted on a check-forgery charge and then found him in his own jail. The prisoner had been arrested on a charge of drunkenness, by city officials, and sent to the sheriff's jail for safekeeping.

MARRIAGE SUITS THEM
CARLSBAD, N. M. — After being married for 13 years, a couple came to Probate Judge J. T. Har- din and asked him to perform another ceremony. They had found their 1930 marriage papers were made out incorrectly.

INSTANTANEOUS SHAVE IS PLENTY HOT
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — L. E. Ingraham got his morning's shave the hard way. At- tempting to weld the leaks in a truck's gasoline tank, he set fire to it and there was an ex- plosion. The blast singed the whiskers from his face, and set fire to the porch.

HE DID HIS BEST
LONDON — The manager of a Middlesex restaurant won his ap- peal against conviction and a 45 fine imposed for food waste by storage exposed to mice. He testi- fied he got 12 traps and three cats and thought that should be suffi- cient safeguard.

NO "BUTS" ABOUT IT
MARTINS FERRY, O. — Police of nearby Yorville will get your goat if you don't watch out. Recently they announced any goats roaming at large in the village will be picked up and their owners fined.

Phils' Stock Boosted; Tail-Enders Split With Dodgers

YANKEES HANG UP FOUR IN ROW OVER BOSTON RED HOSE

Tribe Tightens Grip On Second Place, Downing Chicago

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies, who have been the butt of many bad jokes, are now making the bad jokes say "but..."

The Phillies are in the National League cellar, as expected, but Manager Bucky Harris and Owner Bill Cox have succeeded in collecting a reasonable facsimile of a baseball club. At least it looks more like a ball club than the door mat of recent years.

They have beaten the first place Brooklyn Dodgers in three out of nine games and, considering the maddening fact that Harris has had to do even to get a team on the field, this is a minor miracle.

The Phillies halved a four game series just completed in Brooklyn, winning a tight, ten-inning tussle yesterday 3-2. John Podgajny led the Dodgers to five hits and in the tenth Glen Stewart tripled and came home with the winning run on a fly. Their victim was Buck Newsom.

In the only other National League game yesterday the St. Louis Cardinals were cuffed again by the Chicago Cubs, 5-1, and lost their exclusive hold on second place.

Four in Row for Yanks
The New York Yankees sent the Boston Red Sox away from Yankee stadium bruised and groggy from four consecutive one-run defeats. The American league leaders bagged a doubleheader 2-1 and 5-4 to conclude the series.

The first game was a duel between Ernie Bonham of the Yanks and Lefty Osear Judd, but Charley Keller settled it with a triple in the seventh.

However, the nightcap was a nightmare. Rookie Tom Byrne started on the mound for the Yanks, faced five men and failed to get any of them out. Before Bill Zuber could come to his rescue he had forced two runs across with a walk and Tony Lupien singled off Zuber for two more. This ended the scoring for the Sox, who made only four hits, and the Yanks didn't get a run till the seventh. But in the eighth Dick Newsome loaded the bases and all scored. Relief Pitcher Mace Brown forcing in the tying run with a walk. A wild throw by Brown in the ninth gave the Yanks the deciding run.

The St. Louis Browns downed Detroit for the first time this season in a classic 1-0 contest in which the winning run was scored in the ninth on George McQuinn's triple and a fly.

Roger Wolff stopped the Washington Senators 7-0 for the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Cleveland Indians entrenched themselves more strongly in second place by beating the Chicago White Sox 6-3 behind the steady pitching of Southpaw Al Smith.

Track Meet Cancelled

BOWLING GREEN, May 7.—With only six track men remaining after the recent call to active duty of the army enlisted reserve, Heidelberg college cancelled its dual meet with Bowling Green here Saturday.

Reds and Cubs Play For Hero of Bomber

CINCINNATI, May 7.—The Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs play a ball game this twilight for the special benefit of one man—Pvt. Dale Bordner of Chillicothe, O.

Dale is the lad who bailed out of a bomber over Japanese-occupied New Britain and emerged from the jungles ten months later to ask "how did the Reds come out in 1942?"

Dick Barrett for the Cubs and Johnny Vander Meer for the Reds are going to try to bring him up to date on the sport in a warring world.

Today's 5 p. m. game time may be just the opener for the Reds' "swing shift." General Manager Warren C. Giles says he's going to poll the town on what time folks would like to see games and he adds that he's going to heed the voice of the people.

That is, if half the voting stock wants 3 p. m., half the games will start then. If another quarter says 10 a. m., a quarter start then. And so on.

The Reds already tried one at 11:30 a. m. last Monday, and the main result was a howl from Bill Veck of the Milwaukee Brewers of the American association. Bill said they stole his idea and it served them right that only 3,000 came out.

Tribe Bunches Hits To Beat White Sox

ST. LOUIS, May 7.—If yesterday's game with the Chicago White Sox is any indication, the Cleveland Indians are acquiring the ability to bunch base hits.

The Redskins concentrated eight of their dozen blows in the two scoring innings yesterday to down the Sox 6 to 3 and take the series three games to one.

Every man in the lineup except Manager Lou Boudreau connected at least once, while Oris Hockett, Ken Keltner, Otto Denning and Ray Mack collected two hits apiece.

The Tribesmen met the St. Louis Browns for the first time today in the opener of a four game series. Mel Harder is Boudreau's nomination for the mound chore. Steve Sandra, former Cleveland sandlotter and ex-Yankee, is his opponent.

Lefty Al Smith went the distance against the Sox in the series finale despite the fact he gave up 11 blows and issued four bases on balls.

The Indians set a new season scoring record for themselves against an array of Pale Hose throwers that included Jake Wade, Bill Swift, Orval Grove, Joe Haynes and Don Hanski.

Miami U. Will Try "Twilight Finals"

OXFORD, May 7.—A new stunt in Ohio high school track and field competition will be tried at the ninth annual Miami university meeting here Saturday.

For the first time, finals in the track events will be staged in the twilight. Actually, they will get under way at 5:30 p. m. (CWT), but officials hope to have the winners crowned by sundown.

Finals in the field events will start at 12:30 p. m., and preliminaries and semi-finals in the running events start at 1 p. m.

Also for the first time, this year's carnival has been held to one day. Previously prelims were run-off one day, the finals the next.

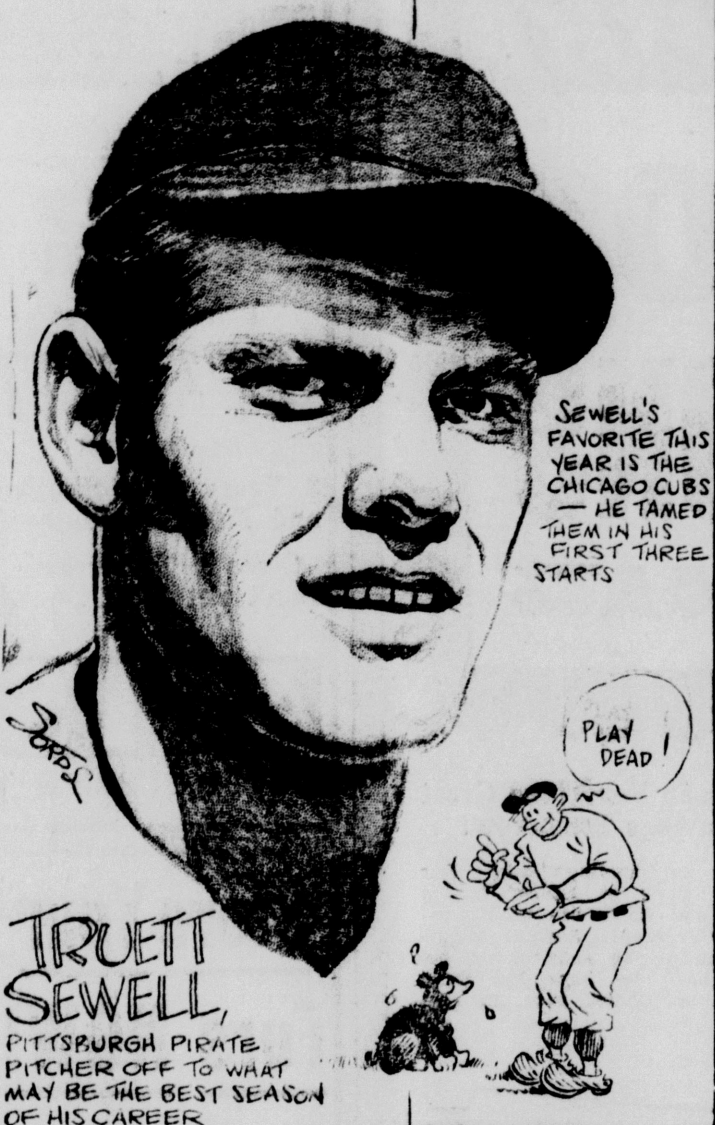

Springfield will defend its Class A championship with a squad of 16 boys, one of the biggest entered. Rome-Stewart, Class B titlist, will be represented by only four boys. More than 300 youths, representing 13 Class A and 16 Class B schools are entered.

Novikoff Is Ineligible

CHICAGO, May 7.—Lou Novikoff, the Chicago Cubs' 300 hitter last year, moved farther back into the doghouse today after Ford Frick, president of the National league, placed him on baseball's ineligible list.

Novikoff was automatically suspended under the code which calls for a player to report within 10 days after the start of the championship season or face ineligibility.

Oldest Pilot, Aged 83, Helps Boys To Sprout Their 'Wings'

(By International News Service)
MONTOUR FALLS, N. Y.—How much difference does age make if a fellow wants to learn to fly?

That's what A. I. Martin, local farmer, asked a young flying instructor four years ago. Today he's 83 years of age, the oldest licensed pilot in the United States, and probably the oldest Civil Air Patrol member in the Army of 70,000.

Besides this, the stocky, tanned Mr. Martin has turned part of his farm into a bustling little airport where air-minded kids from the countryside come to fly. In 1940 he formed the Seneca Eagles Flying Club, with 20 members, built a one-shed hangar for them. Today there are two three-shed hangars on the field, and the club has 100 members. Forty of A. I. Martin's boys are scattered around the world in Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

Hears From The Boys
"I get letters and cards from them right along," he says proudly. "I receive letters from Africa and England, and a lot of army post office addresses which don't tell me very much."

Martin, whose initials "A. I." have been his Christian name throughout his life, says the young flying instructor told him "five years make a lot of difference" when he asked him that question "what difference does age make?"

"The boy of 20 is the best student," was the answer the farmer received from his future flying instructor. But today the octogenarian, who has more than 200 hours of flying time to his credit, readily admits "16 is the age to start 'em."

A favorite nephew started this remarkable pilot on his flight career. Louis R. Smith of nearby Watkins Glen wanted to fly but found he had to travel 27 miles to Ithaca to reach an airport.

How It All Started
Martin explained: "I said, 'Louie, why don't you go out to the farm and use a piece of it?' So he did. Once in a while he'd mow down a few beans for me, or plow up a couple

A recent note from the south points out that a lot of the colleges down that way would like to have teams but may not be able to support them unless they get contributions from the state treasuries.

N.Y. Laws for Young Offenders 'Slow And Careful Experience'

(By United Press.)
ALBANY, N. Y.—New York state's "slow and careful experiment" in the handling of youthful transgressors, believed to be without precedent anywhere in the nation, is attracting the interest of leading crime authorities.

Under a series of bills recently enacted into law by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, deserving youths between 16 and 19 may escape criminal charges and conviction—after indictment—if the bills are intended only to be a slow and careful experiment.

The bills were drafted after a study by a joint legislative committee with the co-operation of the Governor's counsel and officials associated with juvenile delinquency.

Said Senator Fred Young, sponsor of the measures:

"Careful Experiment"

"The theory is agreed upon by most people. The procedure is still to be worked out."

In approving the bills, Dewey said they represent a compromise and an experiment between the ideas of those who would retain the present system and those who would make so radical a change as to place the security of a community and jeopardize, by failure, further advances in the treatment of the youthful offender.

How Law Works

Here's how the new law, which goes into effect Sept. 1, works:

After the indictment of a youth between 16 and 19, the grand jury or the district attorney may recommend that he be examined, with his consent, to determine whether he shall be judged a "youthful offender." These proceedings will be conducted privately, separate from chambers where adult defendants are tried.

Should he be so judged, he may be placed on probation for not more than three years. However, if the court decides against probation, he may be sentenced to a reformatory for not more than three years.

DEATH GOES NATIVE

By MAX LONG

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

I went down the beach to my dinghy and got in but did not pick up the oars. I sat there, thinking over my situation. The more I thought, the blacker it seemed. Finally Komako climbed into the boat beside me and sat down, looking aggravatingly satisfied.

"Now we can go to work," he said. "We got corpses."

"Yes, and a nice mess it puts me in," I returned gleefully. "You was right, 'bout Mrs. Delmar."

"How?" I roused up with a faint throb of hope.

"She could kill him all right—she not even like him."

"We've got a motive for her," I began to reason, "and she was seen leaving the sampan. Even a poor housekeeper could have covered up her tracks in such circumstances."

"Looks like. But we got plenty more to think about. Mr. Budd not like to have police here. He is wanting to cover up. For Mrs. Delmar? For himself?"

"I tell you, Komako, the whole gang's in on it—though probably only one of them actually committed the murder. The most obvious is the way the doctor and his mother shield Elaine."

"She's awful pretty sweet child," Komako murmured. "I want to save her from awful things, too."

"Yes, and I can't see her seizing that spear and—unless—I believe Delmar was a rotter where women were concerned. Josephine's a charming girl, too, and still—"

"Josephine has got story 'bout Delmar," Komako broke in. "We got to make her talk—away from her husband."

"You're right, Thornton's clever, but I think we could get something out of her. What about Thornton, anyway? She gave him reason for jealousy, the way she acted with Delmar. That triangle may be the key, instead of Mrs. Delmar."

As if reminded by my word, Komako thoughtfully drew the key-ring from his pocket. "Everybody will say, like Mrs. Delmar, that she never saw keys before. We going to have to try them in trunks and bags pretty soon."

"Those keys," I said, eyeing them unhappily, "mix everything up. The search of my papers doesn't seem to fit in with her purpose of destroying all evidence of murder. It was done before she disposed of the body, for I found the keys then."

Komako shook his head and put the keys back in his pocket. "You say 'she' all time. Must be you thinking Mrs. Delmar, like me. But we got to watch everybody. Hasty, Herb tell awful quick alibi, no? I got to check that with Henry."

He jotted it down in his notebook and sent a sideways glance at me. "What you think 'bout that girl with scar?"

"Turva Massie? Why, I don't know. At least, she didn't accuse me. The women have all been more friendly than the men."

"You not see her look at me, them white eyes all cold, when I ask questions? She measure me for how smart I am."

"Well, who didn't?" I asked him. "But you apparently satisfied them that you were just a dumb cop."

Komako grinned complacently. "That's best way.... Say, what we fooling 'round here for?" He leaped to the sand and began striding up toward the high hedge. "I got a feeling to talk to Miss Turva," he said as I caught up with him.

I went along silently, hating more interviews until we had something definite to go on. Then, just as we were about to step through an opening in the hedge, we heard women's voices on the other side of it. Komako held me back. One of the voices was Turva's.

"I know, Gwen, it's ghastly. But what else are we to think?"

Gwen Rawson's English intonation was unmistakable. "But Gerald says this Hoyt is definitely not capable of killing. You know, Gerald is well up on that sort of thing."

"I know he reads detective fiction." There was a note of derision in Turva's voice.

"Well, he knows!" Rawson's wife declared confidently. "He says the murder is obvious. You know better than I do about Delmar's dealing with the natives—"

"Stop!" Turva's tone was sharp. "You shan't even suggest the Hawaiians—"

"Now, my dear! You've taken an extraordinary interest in them, teaching Henry and Mary English and all that. But, after all, natives are natives when fish spears are handy and they've a grudge. I've seen them all over the world."

"If you and Gerald," Turva said with suppressed fury, "start messing up the lives of those sweet people, I'll never forgive you!"

She evidently started away on that, because Mrs. Rawson called, "I say, wait a mo!" and her voice grew fainter as the two women retreated. "Turva, I believe you know something—you're shielding them! But isn't that deucedly unfair to a white man...."

Komako and I looked at each other. "Yeah," he said finally, "could be she is shielding somebody. That's what I felt."

"Then of course you'll investigate the Hawaiians and what Delmar did to them?" She said a grudge—

"Sure, sure," he thought deeply and then his face cleared and he slapped his leg heartily. "Shame to me for forgetting! You promise me salmon if they go diving. What they going to think?"

He started swiftly back to the shore. He had promised my named salmon, and I felt no great desire to reward the fishermen for bringing up Delmar's body and putting me in a spot, but I followed. I saw him approach the group on the beach, shouting cheerfully in his own language, and single out Henry. Henry, in turn, pulled a young girl from the crowd and Komako made a great fuss over her. She was a lovely thing, one of those shy yet friendly young creatures whose unspoiled naturalness is truly Hawaiian.

"This is Mary, Hasty," Komako explained. "Mokino's granddaughter. She was almost baby when I saw her—and what you think?—now she is Henry's girl!" he roared at Henry's bashful face.

The girl's bronze cheeks flushed slightly but her dark eyes beamed with pride. She said shyly, "Thank you for the salmon."

"Her and Henry coming out to get it," Komako informed me, sending the dinghy into the water. "Come, come, Hasty."

The girl sprang into a canoe with Henry and they seemed to think it was some kind of race to the sampan. Their laughter came back across the water as Komako, holding back his powerful stroke, let them draw ahead of us. But I was remembering how Mrs. Delmar had gone off in the dark to look for her husband in the Hawaiian village where he might be hanging around Mary, and where Henry might light into him for it....

On boarding the sampan we went straight to the cabin for the canned salmon. When I turned around, there was Mary swiftly scraping and stacking the breakfast dishes we had left unwashed on the table. I remonstrated but she only smiled as she whisked water into the dishpan.

"Only one minute," she promised. "I love to clean up."

That was about all the time it took. She was meticulous and swift. I was ungracious enough—such was the dire necessity for letting no clue escape consideration—to think that she might have used that same swift care in washing blood and glass from the deck. After all, if Henry had resented Delmar's attentions to Mary to the point of killing him, Mary might well have been an accomplice.

I asked: "Where did you learn housekeeping, Mary?"

"Oh, Miss Turva shows me a lot."

"So she is neat, too?" Komako asked carelessly.

"Yes, she is very nice." She looked up at the towering Komako and almost sang her praises: "Miss Turva gives me dresses. One is beautiful just like a fish. You know?"

"Sequins?" I suggested.

"That's it. Some day maybe Henry will take me to Honolulu and I wear that. We will dance and everything."

"And go to a show," Henry added with equal longing.

"It's so funny," Mary observed with a light laugh. "Me and Henry want to go away from Waimaka so bad. And Miss Turva wants to be Hawaiian and pound poi and weave mats."

"Everybody want moon," Komako said, and then, casually: "Miss Turva like this Delmar fellow good, no?"

"No!" Mary said quickly, and emptied the dishpan into the sink, scrubbing both energetically. She cast a sidelong glance at Henry. "No girls like him—only maybe Mrs. West. Sometimes I think even Mrs. West don't like him so good. He was always too—what you call—fresh with us."

Henry scowled blackly but said nothing. Mary wiped her hands and looked at the cans we had stacked in a carton, obviously anxious to change the subject.

"Komako, you and Mr. Hasty must come help eat the salmon," she said. "Tonight. We will make just a little bit luau because you are here. All the people talk about wanting you to come. We will have poi, too."

"Sure, sure!" Komako accepted delightedly. "I am plenty hungry for good poi!"

I didn't mind, for I wanted to probe a little deeper into the youngsters' relations with Delmar—though I was much attracted to them. Henry shouldered the carton and we went up on deck.
